

THE HERALD.

SPENCER COOPER, : : : Editor.

HAZEL GREEN, KY.
THURSDAY, : : : Nov. 27, 1902.

THE HERALD is not an oracle nor the editor of it a wiseacre, but in our issue immediately succeeding the election we came pretty near to stating the exact majority of the Hon. Frank A. Hopkins in this district, which we placed at 3,500. The official returns give him 3,536, or 36 more majority than we accorded him, which is by far the largest majority that was ever attained by any candidate in the district, and for this gigantic result THE HERALD does assume some credit, in that it published and picked to pieces Mr. White's letters. Our comments covered every sentence contained in the two letters, and these we made so plain that "the way-faring man though a fool could read as he ran." Many men in the Republican ranks—men who have stood by that party from principle, rather than through a love of the "loaves and fishes"—could not or would not tolerate the nefarious methods of their candidate when he was thus exposed. Hence many stayed away from the polls, and on the other hand the publicity of his methods spurred the Democrats to a realization of their duty and they turned out better than they otherwise might have done. And over and above all this was a heart-felt desire to do something for Frank Hopkins, in return for a kindness he did the editor some 12 years ago, and at a time when the latter was in sore need of just the service rendered. Now that Mr. Hopkins is our congressman-elect, and by the greatest majority ever given any man in the district, we predict for him a brilliant future. He will prove, if not the most pains-taking and careful of his constituency's needs and wants, why as closely in touch with his people as any man the Tenth district ever honored with the place. No man, however poor or humble, will ever complain that his appeal was unheeded by Mr. Hopkins, be he Democrat or Republican. Cut this out for occasional reference during his congressional career.

+CURRENT COMMENT+
HENRY WATTERSON is out for Gorman for the presidential race in 1904.

THE Cubans are apparently willing to submit to almost anything, but they draw the line where cock fights are prohibited.

MANY newspaper editors are very busily engaged in writing President Roosevelt's annual message for him. This will enable him to take several hunting trips.

EASTERN capitalists have organized a company with a capital of $4,500,000 and have secured 7,000 acres of orange groves in Southern California for the purpose of developing the orange business. All of the fruit will be shipped east under one brand.

Down in Georgia the Atlanta Journal has had to print the pictures of a happy couple over again, with this apologetic explanation: "By an unfortunate error in yesterday's Journal another cut was published with that of his bride instead of Mr. Daniel's."

BRADSTREET's gives the business failures in the United States in October as 802, with liabilities of $9,046,435 and assets of $4,492,421, or 49.6%. This is an increase of 9% over September, but a decrease of over 10% from October, 1901. The total number is less than has been reported in any October for 20 years. Of last month's failures 12 large ones accounted for 40% of the total liabilities, but according to Bradstreet's, there does not seem to be any general cause operating throughout all of them to indicate any tendency of structural weakness in business as a whole.

Ayer's Malaria and Ague Cure

A positive specific for bilious fever, malaria, chills and fever, malarial poisoning, malarial debility, malarial dyspepsia, dumb ague.

Out of patience at last comes the mayor of Jersey City and declares that he will not buy any more tickets for church fairs, or for social or political club dances. The other morning the mayor found in his mail 36 letters, each of which requested him to purchase tickets for something or other. He did a little figuring and found that to oblige the writers he must spend about $200. And yet he no doubt fought hard to secure his present office.

BANKER JAMES SPEYER, of New York, is a man who knows how to pay a delicate compliment to his wife. Wednesday was the fifth anniversary of his wedding, and instead of inviting his friends to make a wooden donation as a consolation for five years of matrimonial penance, he gave each of his employees of the banking house of which he is the head an extra month's salary. Evidently marriage is not a failure in the Speyer household.

AFTER the first of January next carrying parlor matches or keeping them in one's house is to be prohibited in New York city, and any firm storing, selling or giving them away will be subject to arrest. Parlor matches come under the classification of dangerous combustibles, it having been discovered that more than 13,000 fires in the metropolis were caused by them last year.

MOLINEAU, after suffering imprisonment for four years, has been acquitted by the New York city courts. All the testimony went to show that he was innocent, but had his father been a poor man, he would have suffered death in the electric chair. He was convicted on hand writing expert testimony. His two trials cost a half million dollars.

THE fact that Kansas has voted down the constitutional amendment increasing the pay of legislators is not without its compensating circumstances. For instance, the voters did not disturb the existing law under which legislators draw 15 cents a mile for travel while expending only a small supply of ink in signing their railroad passes.

THREE days' vacation in 25 years is the record of Secretary of the Treasury Shaw. Instead of taking rest at stated intervals, Mr. Shaw believes in taking good, healthy exercise at all times, and he is an industrious walker. He also believes in horseback riding and says that it is one of the best forms of exercise.

MITCHELL, president of the United Mine Workers, was on the witness stand nearly five days, and was cross-examined by some of the brightest lawyers in the country. He was a good witness for his many followers, however, and the legal lights did not gain much advantage over him.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks' 1903 Almanac. To say that this splendid work of science and art is finer and better than ever, is stating it mildly. The demand for it is far beyond all previous years. To say that such results, reaching through 30 years, are not based upon sound sense and usefulness, is an insult to the intelligence of the millions. Prof. Hicks, through this great Almanac, and his famous family and scientific journal, Word and Works, is doing a work for the whole people not approached by any other man or publication. A fair test will prove this to any reasonable person. Added to the most luminous course in astronomy for 1903, forecasts of storm and weather are given, as never before, for every day in the year, all charmingly illustrated with nearly 200 engravings. The price of single Almanac, including postage and mailing, is 30 cents. Word and Works with the Almanac is $1.00 a year. Write to Word and Works Publishing Co., 2201 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo., and prove to yourself their great value.

Will Establish School in Menefee.

Rev. J. W. Doan, who is engaged in school and church work in the counties of Menefee, Wolfe and Morgan, called to see us Monday. He has been in this work for 10 years and has met with great success. He is now trying to establish a school in Menefee county under the auspices of the American Missionary Association of Congregational churches. He is soliciting aid from the people generally and we hope the response will be liberal, as the work is a laudable one. —Mt. Sterling Gazette, Nov. 20.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century, discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent urinary and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Singhamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

FRED J. HEINTZ,

East Main Street, Opposite Phoenix Hotel, LEXINGTON, KY.

Hon. W. O. Mize returned Monday evening from Indianapolis, where he has been for the month past, the guest of his son Carl, who is in business there. Carl also came home to spend Thanksgiving day with his mother and eat Thanksgiving turkey with his father and mother at the family fireside, there being no place so dear to him as "My Old Kentucky Home" after confinement to the counting room for months, and no where is the proverbial poultry of the occasion so plump or so succulent as the Kentucky bird.

John Davis came over Wednesday from West Liberty, being unable to proceed with work on the new bank building on account of the inclement weather. The first story, however, is about completed, and should the weather prove propitious the work will be pushed so that the bank officials may occupy the structure on and after Jan. 1, 1903. This is rendered necessary because of the bank's growing business and the inadequacy of their present quarters.

The New Kentucky.

The following is an extract from a speech of A. Y. Ford, delivered at the Commercial Club banquet, Louisville, on Monday evening, Nov. 17th, in advocacy of an exhibit of Kentucky's resources at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904. All who heard or have read the speech in its entirety pronounce it "A Masterpiece of Sense, Sentiment and Eloquence," and we regret that our limited space precludes its publication as a whole: "Gentlemen, I give you 'The New Kentucky.' All honor to the old. May we never be less loyal to her memories. May we never cease to find inspiration in her story, writ large on the nation's history. May the sun never shine less brightly upon her, nor greed of gold blight those graces of life which have been a benediction to her citizenship. But the new Kentucky! Our reverence to the old; to the new, our best endeavor. The old is ours to love; the new is ours to love no less and to uphold. The old is ours to venerate and to cherish for its honorable traditions; the new is ours to adorn with that crown of material prosperity that should be here. To the realization of that hope, the hope of every man who truly loves his state, insofar as this exposition affords the opportunity to promote it, the Kentucky Exhibit Association has dedicated its efforts and craves your hearty co-operation."

A Cutting Scrape Sunday.

On Sunday afternoon last in an altercation at Howard Little's saw mill, on Gillmore creek, a young man named Montgomery, living on the Dick Wilson farm on Red River, cut Reuben Bradley twice below the left shoulder blade, near the spinal column, and once on the left arm. Dr. Nickell was summoned and dressed Bradley's cuts, which he pronounced not necessarily serious in the absence of pneumonia, and made him as comfortable as he could. Both men were under the influence of liquor at the time, and the wounded man first essayed a row with Mr. Little, but subsequently apologized, and attacked Montgomery, whom he knocked down twice before the latter had recourse to his knife. No arrests had been made up to Monday at noon. Andy Haddix is our informant, and though not an eye-witness, had the story straight from those who did see the difficulty.

William Stamper Acquitted.

In the Menefee circuit court at Frenchburg two weeks ago, William Stamper, of Montgomery county, was tried for the killing of James Bush, and acquitted, to the great satisfaction of his host of friends, especially of this section, where he was reared. Bush, it will be remembered, met his death in the deadly encounter in which Deputy Marshal Howard Wilson was killed while attempting to arrest "Tip" Day, two years ago, last July. Stamper was also charged with shooting Day, but that indictment was filed away. Day was himself badly wounded, but escaped jail at Frenchburg while awaiting trial for killing Wilson, and has never been apprehended.

Judge Lusk, of Oregon, who is a sojourner here, lead in a creditable act of charity today. After the feast of the dedication dinner he got a basket and filled it with the good things, which he took to a widow and children living nearby.

WASHINGTON CITY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20.
Col. Spencer Cooper, Hazel Green.

My Dear Friend: I have for a long time intended writing to you, but until now have been unable to work up sufficient ambition to do so. I have thought that it might be agreeable to you if I should, from time to time, scribble a few lines for the "onliest only" that ever set up shop in Kentucky's classic hills, and shed the light of a better and nobler destiny over a section that was sadly lacking in the first essential of a progressive people—a progressive and fearless newspaper.

The HERALD was the pioneer that blazed the way and made possible country journalism in the Eastern Kentucky mountains, and while it has had many imitators, few, if any, survive, that have risen above mediocrity, and the great majority have turned their little "tootsy-wootsies" to the daisies.

I feel that it is presumption on my part to attempt to break into the columns of a newspaper that counts among its contributors such a shining literary luminary as W. J. Lampton, but I will like a chance, so here goes.

Washington promises to be an interesting place this winter, and already the clans, or rather the senators and representatives, are gathering for the short and best session of the present congress, which convenes the first Monday in December. There are rumors of tariff revision, but unless there is an extra session it is morally certain that there will be no tariff tinkering until the new congress convenes a year hence.

The contest for Speaker Henderson's mantle has narrowed down to no contest at all, and it is generally conceded that "Uncle Joe" Cannon will wield the gavel in the Fifty-seventh congress. As chairman of the appropriations committee Mr. Cannon has been nearly as great a factor in shaping legislation as the speaker himself, so his new duties will not be unfamiliar to him.

Many new faces will appear in the next house, and some old ones who fell outside the breastworks will be missed. Among the notables who failed to be returned are Hon. Dave Mercer, of Nebraska, chairman of the committee on public buildings and grounds, and Congressman Loud, of California, chairman of the committee on postoffices and post roads. The letter-carriers union beat Loud, and the antagonist of Rosewater, of the Omaha Bee, was the immediate cause of Mercer's defeat.

Among the new congressmen on the Democratic side will be two very notable gentlemen from New York—W. R. Hearst, editor and owner of the New York Journal, the Chicago American and the San Francisco Examiner, and ex-State Senator Timothy D. Sullivan, the dominant spirit in Tammany Hall.

In both of these gentlemen the wage-earners and the middle classes will have powerful champions. Mr. Hearst carried his district by the greatest majority ever given a congressional candidate, and Mr. Sullivan received a handsome majority in a district which is now represented by a Republican and which two years ago refused to honor Perry Belmont with a seat in congress.

Tim Sullivan is large of body and large of heart, and will make his constituents a faithful representative, while Mr. Hearst, thro' his newspaper, has become known throughout the land as the champion of the lowly.

Several lessons can be learned from the past election. One is that the vote of the organized workers is a factor to be reckoned with. As Chairman Babcock says "the swing of the city vote is toward democracy." The city vote is largely made up of organized labor, and it is in the city where the high prices for the necessities of life are felt the most, and it is because of the fact that they realize that there is something wrong in a political system that increases the cost of living with no material advance in wages, that cause them to vote for a change.

It has been a long time coming, but it looks now as if the wage-earner is going to come into his own. Years ago, when you first affiliated with a trades union, they didn't amount to a great deal, and even when I joined the union some 15 years ago, organized labor did not count for much in a political way, although I believe the typographical union was instrumental in beating Harrison, because his running mate, Whitelaw Reid, was at that time hostile to organized labor. Things are different now, and the laboring people, as a united, compact force, are a power—and a power for good, at that. Party lines hold them lightly, if at all, and they align themselves on the side friendly to their cause. Organized labor stands for an era of brighter and better things. It asks for a shorter work-day, that the man who toils may have a few hours out of the 24 for recreation of mind and body; it asks for a living wage, that the toiler may educate his children, and add a few comforts to a life that is not all sunshine, at least; it demands that the workshops shall be sanitary, and that all precautions shall be taken to guard the lives and health of the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow; it protests against child labor in mills, mines and factories, and asks that laws be enacted forbidding the employment of children under certain age. It insists on its right to organize for mutual benefit and protection, and while willing to arbitrate all matters, is ready at all times to wage battle in defense of its rights and its principles. I wish that the farmer could realize the great fight the factory worker in the mills and the factories are making, and aid them by insisting on having the union label on things they buy. The label stands for skilled workmanship, the best goods and fair conditions. See that it is on what you buy. Ask for it when you buy a hat, a pair of shoes, brooms, clothing, or anything that is the product of skilled men or women, and help fight the great battle now being waged for better things.

One other thing the late election taught, and that is that there is a vast difference between a political charlatan and a statesman. I thought that David B. Hill was a statesman, and I know that he said he was a Democrat, but he's nothing more than a common, ordinary "three shell" political trickster after all. He had it in his power to name a man for the Democratic nomination for governor of New York, in the person of Judge Parker, who would have won in a walk in the recent contest in that state. He didn't name him because Judge Parker is a statesman, and as governor of New York would be the logical candidate for the Democratic nomination for president in 1904—and Hill has an idea that he will be the nominee. He thought that he could elect Oiler and get the credit for it, but up the state they were afraid of Hill and his coal plank, and while Tammany Hall did itself proud, Hill couldn't deliver the goods. He sacrificed the ticket to further his own ambitions, and now he's a dead one.

I believe that Judge Parker is the logical candidate for the Democrats in 1904, if there is such a thing as logic in the old party at all. We have made one campaign on a question that nature has selected for us; we made another on sentiment. Now, let us make the next one on practical lines. All the factions can unite on Parker. Its no use to talk of Gorman. While I believe he is the smartest man in the Democratic party today yet he would not be acceptable to a large class of Bryan followers, and without a united party its no use trying to elect anyone.

Well, I have written more than I intended, so I will quit. If you want to use this do so; if it is not the proper stuff put 'er in the basket, and I assure you I will not be offended.

I am out of practice, as far as writing goes, this being the first letter I have written this year. Perhaps will improve when I get warmed up.

With regards to Mrs. Cooper, I am Your friend,
CHARLES O'CONNELL.

HOUSEWORK

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged nerves, leucorrhoea and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.

WINE OF CARDUI

Is doing this for thousands of American women to-day. It cured Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Glendane, Ky., Feb. 10, 1901.
I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my own work without any help, and I washed last week and was not one bit tired. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting fatter than I ever was before, and sleep good and eat hearty. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to have to lay down five or six times every day, but now I do not think of lying down through the day.
